Shark, is the famous celebrity that I'd like to talk about. He was raised in New York and later on came back to China for his music career. Recently, he is quite successful in the music industry in China, and the songs he writes are ear candies that's always on the top of the chart.

Although Shark doesn't have a charming appearance, he spends most of his time surfing and working on his music in his own private music studio which is his apartment. Up to until today, he has published numerous albums and a few local concerts in "Zhe-Jiang". I doubt that anyone could devote oneself to music this much, and by his hard-working spirit, he received a lot of great comments from the local radio stations.

And if you ever listen to the music he composes, he often blends in different elements like Jazz, Blues and a lot of rhythms that you can find in traditional Chinese opera, and by the way, he is the first one to create this unique style of music. He is definitely the leading musician in the Chinese pop industry. Although some people compare him to Jay Chou, I still like him better as he never really promotes himself on TV like him.
